VOLUME VII
NUMBER 7

IN MAY

Child Study Programs in Curriculum Development is the theme of Educational Leadership in May, and an important one with which to close the 1949-50 publication year.

Articles in this issue will deal with the Mid-century White House Conference on Children and Youth; an annotated list of intercultural books for youngsters and adolescents; three articles on the organization of child study programs from the Institute for Child Study, University of Maryland; a case study of a little boy by his teacher; the Dr. William C. Menninger address on mental health in our schools, given at the Denver convention; the inner school the child sees, by E. T. McSwain; studying children in the classroom through a continuity program; a child study program sponsored by the Illinois ASCD with the cooperation of the University of Chicago; and an account from La-Grange, Illinois.
