AN ASCD OPPORTUNITY:

ASCD AFFILIATES

By participating in an ASCD affiliate, many educators enjoy the warm collegiality for which ASCD is known. These affiliates, representing every state and parts of Canada, Europe, and the Caribbean, provide a professional home for a large segment of ASCD's membership. ASCD's role as a forum for the debate of ideas is fulfilled, in part, by the vigorous activity of its affiliates.

ASCD's affiliates function somewhat as a confederacy; they are both integral to and independent from the parent organization. Each affiliate has its own constitution, officers, dues, and programs. ASCD members may belong to the parent organization, their affiliate, or both.

Both the parent organization and the affiliates contribute something special to their members. Readers of Educational Leadership will be familiar with the wide range of services of ASCD, including a focus on national issues. The affiliates offer similar services—conferences, working groups, newsletters, and journals—but with an emphasis on important regional policy issues. In addition, the affiliates help develop talented professionals who later may become leaders of the parent organization. Working together, the parent organization and the affiliates provide ASCD members with a rich array of services that provide for growth locally, nationally, and internationally.

For more information on joining your ASCD affiliate, contact Diane G. Berreth, Director of Field Services, ASCD.

TAKE NOTE

To better serve our members and customers, ASCD headquarters has installed a new automated telephone system. Brief recorded instructions now make it easy for callers to reach any employee or department of ASCD. Callers can use a last name or extension number to reach any employee directly. If that person is not available, the caller may leave a recorded message. ASCD will continue to provide operator assistance for callers who prefer to use it.
